VII. ADVISORY FOR LIMITING PERSONAL INFORMATION IN TRANSCRIPTS

The judiciary's privacy policy restricts the publication of certain personal data in documents filed with the court. The policy requires limiting Social Security and financial account numbers to the last four digits, using only initials for the names of minor children, and limiting dates of birth to the year. [For criminal cases, also limit home addresses to city and state.] However, if such information is elicited during testimony or other court proceedings, it will become available to the public when the official transcript is filed at the courthouse unless, and until, it is redacted. The better practice is for trial lawyers to avoid introducing this information into the record in trial. Please take this restriction into account when questioning witnesses or making other statements in court. If a restricted item is mentioned in court, the attorney may ask to have it stricken from the record or partially redacted to conform to the privacy policy, or the court may elect to do so on its own motion.

As part of the Fifth Circuit's Implementation of the Electronic Record on appeal, the Court will now scan and docket exhibits offered into evidence at trial and during other evidentiary hearings in civil and criminal cases in which a notice of appeal has been filed. The said exhibits will be available to the public and it is the responsibility of the parties to redact according to the E-government Act of 2002 when presenting exhibits.
